Product Details

IceKing Waterproof Bib Pant is designed to handle work environments to -40°C. It features a 300D Oxford Rip Stop outer shell and a 150D Polyester internal coated lining. It is ideal for any work where protection from the cold is essential.

Why would you buy this over any of its competitors? The answer is simple – we created the IceKing Waterproof Bib Pant as well as the rest of the IceKing range because we had so many requests from frozen goods manufacturers complaining about the lack of garment performance in low temperatures. The other products on the market were simply not doing the job, so many of our clients asked us to come up with something better, and the IceKing Range was the result. After extensive market research and trials with several well known frozen food manufacturers, the IceKing range was refined and developed.

The Bib Pant is durable, with the 300D Oxford Rip Stop outer shell. It is also made with anti-rot threads and double-stitched seams. This means you can rely on our Bib Pant, as it handles demanding work with no hassle.

It's also comfortable to wear for long periods and easy to adjust. It features ankle sleeves with Velcro closures to eliminate air movement and retain warmth. There are also Velcro closures on all external pockets.

Basically, if you're after a Bib Pant that's ideal for cold temperatures, then you can't do better than our IceKing Range.
